

DEORON

A space for nice things

REFRAMING THE FEED

Turning a design discovery account into a more valuable, more deliberate media proposition.

Positioning / Editorial architecture / Monetisation / Offer design

THE AUDIENCE WAS ALREADY THERE.

The opportunity wasn't simply to grow the account. DEORON had already built the ingredients of a media business: a large design-led audience, strong save and share behaviour, and an editorial point of view.

Strategic question

How do you monetise attention without diluting the reason people follow you?

Metrics sourced from DEORON Media Kit 2026; figures are presented as supplied in the deck.

FROM POSTING TO PLACEMENT.

I reframed the proposition around a simple idea: DEORON wasn't selling access to an Instagram feed. It was selling access to a highly curated design environment.

BEFORE

A brand asks to be posted because the product looks cool.

ONE-OFF REACH

Transactional. Hard to scale. Easy to dilute.

AFTER

DEORON sells limited visibility to brands that pass its taste filter.

CURATED ACCESS

Scarce. Editorial. Commercially valuable.

THE STRATEGIC IDEA

Taste becomes the product.

03 PROTECT THE VALUE

80 / 20

THE EDITORIAL RULE

The commercial model only works if the feed still feels curated. The answer was to formalise scarcity: 80% of content stays independently selected; only 20% of slots are open for brand features.

WHY IT MATTERS

Paid visibility becomes meaningful because it sits inside an environment that does not accept every brand or every product.

This is the editorial logic now reflected in the DEORON media kit.

INTENT, NOT JUST ATTENTION.

The commercial story becomes stronger when DEORON can demonstrate what happens after a post lands: saves, shares, reach and repeat discovery.

Examples shown in the supplied media kit include posts reaching 100K–1M+ views with thousands of saves / shares.

The portfolio point is not the individual number. It's the pattern: DEORON creates content people keep, share and revisit.

ONE FEATURE. THREE SURFACES.

The strategy was to move away from selling a single Instagram post and towards a simple, cross-channel package that compounds value.

01

Instagram

Editorial storytelling on @deoron.

02

Shop Directory

A persistent brand presence on deoron.com.

03

Newsletter

A direct route into an owned audience.

The current DEORON media kit packages these three surfaces together.

THE HIGH-MARGIN LAYER.

Once the core placement is protected, the next commercial layer is everything the brand can buy around it: reuse, exclusivity, amplification and priority.

USAGE / LICENSING

Brand reuse of DEORON content

WHITELISTING

Paid amplification through the brand

CATEGORY EXCLUSIVITY

No competing category placements

DESIGN-WEEK PRIORITY

Premium timing around cultural moments

DIRECTORY UPGRADE

Longer-term discovery on DEORON.com

FAST TURNAROUND

Compressed production window

Principle

Never give away rights, exclusivity or amplification when the brand is paying only for placement.

FROM ACCOUNT TO ECOSYSTEM.

The longer-term opportunity is to turn audience attention into owned commercial inventory across the wider DEORON world.

SPONSORED DESIGN GUIDES

Brand-funded editorial collections

DESIGN-WEEK EDITIONS

Premium partnerships around cultural peaks

PRODUCT DROPS

Curated commerce, not just visibility

DIRECTORY TIERS

Paid discovery with a longer shelf life

NEWSLETTER SPONSORSHIP

Owned-media inventory beyond Instagram

I BUILT THE COMMERCIAL LOGIC.

I reframed DEORON from a social account into a curated media proposition - keeping taste and editorial independence at the centre while building a clearer path to paid partnerships.

POSITIONING

Defined DEORON as a curated design media platform rather than an influencer account.

EDITORIAL ARCHITECTURE

Separated independent editorial from scarce, paid brand features.

OFFER DESIGN

Turned visibility into packaged placements across Instagram, site and newsletter.

MONETISATION

Identified retainers, licensing, exclusivity, amplification and other higher-value upsells.

ECOSYSTEM

Extended the commercial logic beyond social into directory, guides, events and owned media.

DEORON

A space for nice things.

And a smarter way to monetise them.
